

Dr Siobhan Mor

---

Dr Siobhan Mor is a Reader in One Health at the University of Liverpool in the UK. A veterinarian by original training, she has more than 15 years' experience conducting research on issues at the intersection of human, animal, and environmental health. She has particular interest in emerging zoonoses and child health, the latter being the focus of her PhD. Siobhan is currently seconded to the International Livestock Research Institute in Addis Ababa, where she is the Research Lead for the UK-funded One Health Regional Network for the Horn of Africa ("HORN project"). HORN is being implemented in Ethiopia, Kenya, Eritrea, and Somalia/Somaliland and aims to strengthen individual and capacity for One Health research in the region.